

STOP PRESSURE INJURY DAY 2024

FAKULTY OF HEALTH CARE UNIVERSITY OF PRESOV IN PRESOV

PREVENTION

EDUCATION OF NURSING STUDENTS

Education in pressure ulcer of prevention is key to improving the quality of healthcare provided.

Education improves the ability of health professionals to identify at-risk patients and implement preventive measures.

Healthcare facilities are legally and ethically responsible for providing quality care. Pressure ulcers are often considered an indicator of poor quality care. Awareness is key to avoiding legal disputes.

Systematic education is essential to effectively prevent and reduce the incidence of pressure ulcer in healthcare facilities.

Prevention of pressure ulcer is part of nurse education.

EDUCATION OF SENIOR

Public involvement in The Stop Pressure Ulcer Day is very important because many people at risk of developing decubitus are in home care. The public can play a key role, especially when it comes to family members, caregivers, and communities supporting seniors.

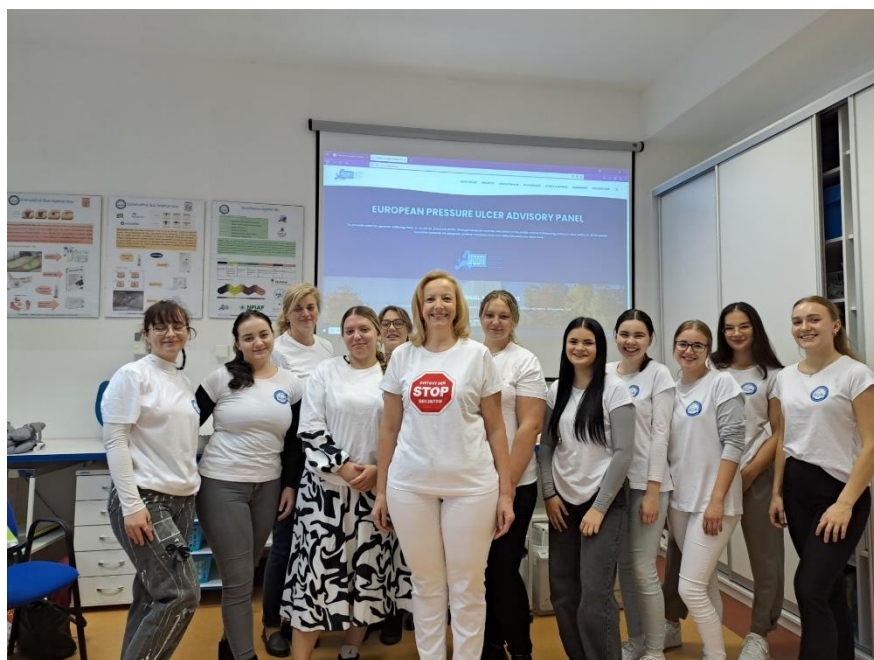

In order to improve public awareness, we have involved students from the University of the third age in the Stop Pressure Ulcer Day. We combined lectures with hands-on demonstrations in the chronic wound care simulation center.

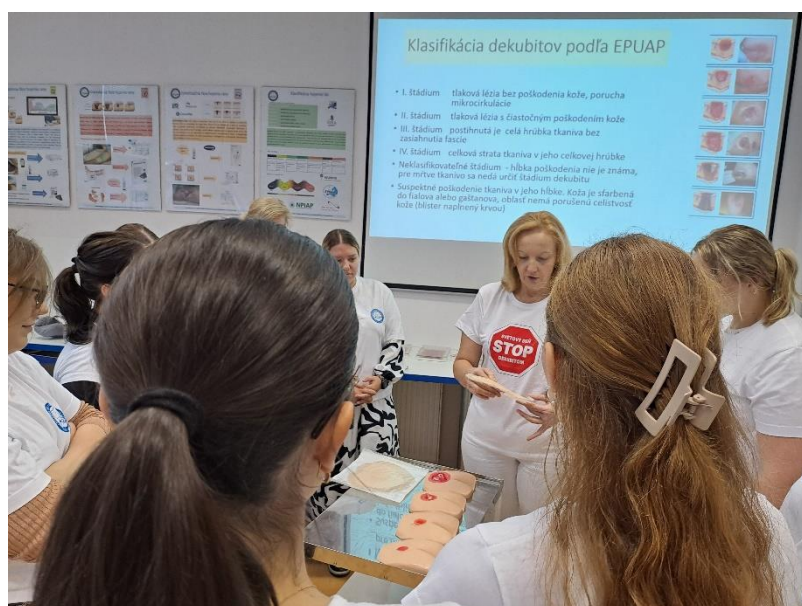

PATIENT EDUCATION IN HOSPITAL

Nursing students during clinical exercises at the J.A. Reiman in Prešov, provided patients with information materials explaining simple steps and the correct procedure for preventing pressure ulcers.
