

Comer Health & Rehabilitation in Comer, Georgia USA participated in World Wide Pressure Injury Prevention Day 2024. Prevention is the responsibility of everyone - no matter where or what part of the world you are in.

Prevention comes together like a quilt - each department represents a quilt square and what they provide for prevention is the stitching that holds the quilt together. The more departments/families that come together make the prevention hold together better. At Comer we are a family coming together with care, compassion and love. This was posted at our entrance for families, visitors and all staff to view all through the day. Education given to all as to how important each and every one is in the prevention of pressure injury prevention. Families and visitors as well enjoyed the quilt and information and voiced better understanding of prevention.

The Body's Pressure Points

