

Good day.

We are the wound care team from Sheikh Khalifa Medical City in Ajman (SKMCA), United Arab Emirates. We are excited to inform you regarding our upcoming celebration of the Worldwide Pressure Injury Prevention Day on 20 November 2025. Part of this celebration is the recognition of the pressure injury prevention hero, department and the most improved unit. Additionally, we will provide an appreciation award to the multidisciplinary team that supports our holistic approach to pressure injury prevention and management (including internal medicine doctors, surgery team, respiratory therapists, physiotherapists, nutritionists, and nursing quality). This will foster a positive organisational culture of patient safety, which is essential to preventing and managing pressure injuries.

Another activity for this event is the "Shark Tank Innovation", where different departments will showcase their innovative ideas regarding pressure injury prevention. This will be awarded on the same day. Furthermore, it is an excellent opportunity to share the progress and challenges encountered by the SKMCA Wound Care Team, including educational training, workshops, symposiums and the strategic plans for 2026. Lectures regarding the latest evidence-based practice in pressure injury prevention and management will also be included in the second part of the session. For this reason, we will also attach our agenda for the mentioned event.

Lastly, we will be honoured to share the event photos with you by the end of the week or early next week.

Thank you for the opportunity to celebrate the Worldwide Pressure Injury Prevention Day.

Respectfully,

Beverly Angel A. Claudel
