

FAKULTY OF HEALTH CARE UNIVERSITY OF PREŠOV IN PREŠOV

At the Faculty of Health care, University of Prešov in Prešov, we have repeatedly participated in this initiative, as participation in international campaigns is an important part of modern nursing education.

Such involvement also promotes critical thinking and a professional approach to care, which are essential for the next generation of healthcare professionals.

It provides students with the opportunity to actively participate in global initiatives focused on patient quality and safety, learn about the latest recommendations in the prevention and treatment of pressure ulcers, and realize the extent of their impact on patients' health.

The event was also part of Science and Technology Week in Slovakia.
